11 Killed as Bomber Crashes into Seattle House

AT LEAST 11 PERSONS are dead and scores are injured and missing after a four-engine B-50 Air Force bomber crashed into this Seattle, Wash., frame apartment house. Flames fed by 4,000 gallons of the plane's gasoline shot 150 feet into the air. (International Soundphoto)

SEATTLE, Aug. 14—(P)—A roaring four-engine air force bomber plowed into an apartment house here yesterday afternoon, killing six crewmen and at least five residents of the structure.

A raging fire which reduced the wreckage and most of the flimsy 200-foot long three-story building to a tangled, charred mess of rubble may have killed others. Hours after the blaze, firemen played streams of water on the smoldering heap, attempting to cool it enough to permit further search.

The bodies of the 11 known dead were recovered. It is believed more may be found today. What caused the huge B-50 bomber to crash is not known.

Witnesses said all its four motors appeared to be working perfectly in a tremendous effort to gain altitude after taking off from Boeing Field. But at approximately 700 feet it started losing altitude rapidly and turned into a stiff right bank.

A leading edge of the plane grazed a wall of a brewery building and crashed into a concrete bulkhead behind it. The plane's nose struck a line of automobiles parked in front of the apartment house and the huge craft flipped over as it ripped into the brick-faced Lester Apartments.

Many Away from Home
Only about one-third the 64 persons normally resident in the building were home. Twelve were burned severely or injured in the impact, at least five others died.

Military authorities early today identified the third air force man aboard the plane as M-Sgt. Frank A. Dodaro, 35, Kingston, N. Y. He was the flight engineer. The other two, named previously, were Capt. (Please turn to Page Eight)

UN TROOPS SET FOR REDS

Two Candidates Are Disqualified

Board Rules That Signatures Invalid

Two candidates out of the 114 who filed for offices in Fayette County have been disqualified from running for office.

Their petitions were found not to contain sufficient valid signatures.

The two men are Ora Bellar, a candidate for city council, and Frank Grubbs, a candidate for trustee of Wayne Township.

The ruling on the validity of the petitions was made during a meeting of the Fayette County Board of Elections at its offices last Friday. Announcement of the board's ruling was made Tuesday morning.

Of the 114 candidates who filed for the city, township and county offices, 112 were found to be valid and sufficient.

The following levies were approved for submission to the voters in the Nov. 6 general election: Madison Local School District, a renewal of three mills for five years; Perry Local School District, three mills for five years; Bloomingburg School District, a renewal of three mills for five years, all for current expenses of the schools, and two-tenths of a mill for five years for Washington C. H. for recreational purposes.

Announcement was made that August 17 is the last day for election withdrawals. The last day to file protests against nominating petitions is August 18.

Hero of First War Found Dead in Home

VEVAY, Ind., Aug. 14—(P)—Major Samuel Woodfill, 68, who was acclaimed one of America's greatest heroes of World War I, was found dead yesterday in his apartment.

Sheriff Ora Scudder said Woodfill apparently died several days ago of a heart ailment. Woodfill won the Congressional Medal of Honor for leading an attack near Cunel, France, Oct. 2, 1918.

His medal citation said Woodfill single handedly cleaned out three German machine gun nests, killing 15 Germans with his rifle, two with his pistol, and two with a pick in a face to face struggle during the attack.

Gen. John J. Pershing selected Woodfill as a pallbearer at the burial of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery.

The governor said the conference also will take up "certain administrative problems" created by amendments the recent legislature made to the civil service job-salary reclassification law.

Early died Saturday of a heart ailment.

4,500 Americans Prisoners of Reds

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14—(P)—Unofficial estimates indicated today that, of the 10,624 Americans officially listed as missing in action in Korea, as many as 4,500 probably are being held in Communist war prisoner camps.

This figure comes from Allied military sources which can not be named but which are in as good position as anyone on the Allied side to know the score on this hush-hush matter.

The number of American and other UN prisoners never has been announced by the Reds. Allied sources estimate the total number at approximately 10,000.

Catholic Schools Are Opened To Expelled West Point Cadets

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(P)—Many of the 90 accused West Point cadets -- who had been wondering where to go after leaving the academy -- were reported elated today over Francis Cardinal Spellman's announcement they could enroll in three Roman Catholic men's colleges.

Last night the cardinal, saying "to err is human, to forgive divine," opened the doors of the three schools in his archdiocese.

Many of the cadets involved in the cheating scandal -- subject to the draft unless they continue their studies elsewhere -- said they would give Cardinal Spellman's offer "serious consideration."

One said, "the first good news we've had."

Another commented, "that man really has a heart."

Some cadets have said that colleges appear "afraid" to accept them. Many educators say it is not fear but merely routine policy on transfers.

The cardinal's statement came as many of the 90 were preparing today to leave the academy for their homes. They are accused of violating the West Point honor code by cheating on examinations.

The cardinal asked the presidents of the three schools -- Fordham University, Manhattan College and Iona College -- "accept any of these students who may apply to them for admission."

He added that the heads of the (Please turn to Page Ten)

American Money Europe's Defense

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(P)—Europe's major defense problem is money, not manpower, the House foreign affairs committee said today in support of a $7,848,750,000 foreign-aid program.

In a formal report to the House, the committee quoted General Eisenhower, head of western Europe defense armies, as saying that "men were being called up and trained faster than equipment was arriving."

"Manpower is not the bottleneck in developing European defense," the committee said. "The limiting factors are equipment and money . . . General Eisenhower was emphatic on this point."

What's needed, the committee emphasized, is American financial help until the free nations of the world are in a position to pay for their own defenses.

Military Building Program Studied

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(P)—The House today authorized the largest single military construction program ever presented to Congress in war or peace. It calls for spending $5,768,720,000.

The major portion of the proposed work, $3,480,661,000, is allotted to the air force and will be used to strengthen its bases in this country, in the territories and overseas.

The sum of $1,368,025,000 is earmarked for army construction and $786,267,000 for the navy. In addition, there is about $133,766,000 for joint projects and for construction of recreational and welfare facilities at bases.

Threats of War 'Never Greater'

Defense Mobilizer Warns Against Lull

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 14—(P)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today the danger of a third World War is "greater than ever" and it can be averted only in building America's might.

Warning the country against being lulled by Moscow's "sweet talk," Wilson said military and industrial strength is the only language Soviet Russia really understands.

Wilson made the statements in an address prepared for the National Institute for Chamber of Commerce and Trade Association Executives.

On the domestic front, he said that price control changes recently directed by Congress may mean meat black markets and living cost boosts of five to eight percent.

He said the ban voted by Congress in the new Defense Production Act against government slaughtering controls may concentrate meat supply in large packers. This may lead, he said, to "local meat famines—which the customer can avoid only by paying illegal and extortionate prices for black market meat."

Wilson said new rules directed by Congress for calculating price ceilings will require higher prices (Please turn to Page Ten)

Ward Collopy, who grew up in Washington C. H., is concerned about some promotion going on in his old home town.

In a letter to a boyhood friend who is now on the Record-Herald staff, he told of his concern over the sale of advertising for the "Civil Service Tribune" of Columbus.

He wrote that this publication "has no connection of any sort with any Civil Service organization." Other comments concerning it were tagged as "off the record."

Collopy, who has been connected with the state Civil Service system for several years, with offices in the state capital is now the headman of the "Civil Service News," the official organ of the Civil Service system.

He said he was aroused to action by a telephone call that came into the News office from Washington C. H. The office secretary, however, failed to get the name of the caller, he added.

He wrote that the Washington C. H. caller had reported that some advertising had been sold here by the "Civil Service Tribune." Collopy's letter was in the nature of an explanation and to distinguish between the two publications.

He did not say the "Civil Service Tribune" does not exist; he emphasized merely that it has no official connection with the state Civil Service system.

Collopy said that right now he is busy getting out the racing program for the Ohio State Fair. But, if it rains during Fair week, he said, "look for me on the south end of a plow on the Bogus Road" in Fayette County.

His brother Frank Collopy, he said, has just recently returned from Ireland where he visited the birthplace of their parents.

Boy's Body Found Hanging in Garage; Murder Is Scented

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—(P)—The father of 13-year-old Richard Tanno who was found hanging in an abandoned garage last night, said today he believes the boy may have been murdered.

"I feel this is foul play," Michael Tanno told Cleveland Heights police. "Richard couldn't have done this by himself."

A playmate, Norman Jacobs, 16, found Richard's body dangling by a heavy rope from a rafter over a grease pit. The victim's head was hooded with a greasy rag tied around the neck with a cord.

Detective Capt. Charles Ruff said Richard apparently had walked out on a board across the pit with the rope about his neck, and either walked off the end of the board or was pushed.

Ruff said the garage was a hang-out for children in the neighborhood and that he was questioning dozens of children on the chance the death was due to "a prank that backfired."

Draft Deferment Now Is Near End

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(P)—The blanket deferment of college students will end next Monday on schedule, Selective Service said today.

"There definitely will be no extension of the deferment," a spokesman said. "If draft boards don't have reports as to the scholastic standing or aptitude test scores of college men by the 20th, they can start classifying those men for the draft on the 21st."

Fisherman Pulled Out

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—(P)—James Hegler, 56, went fishing today and was pulled out of Lake Erie himself with a minnow net. Hegler slipped on a mossy piling post and plunged into the water. Another fisherman, John Gydosh, 28, pulled him to shore with the long handled net.

Pressure Put on Czechoslovakia

Release of Oatis Sternly Demanded

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The House today unanimously advocated immediate severance of commercial relations with Czechoslovakia until William A. Oatis is freed from a Prague jail.

By a standing vote of 231 to 0 the chamber passed and sent to the Senate a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that such action should be taken.

Deleted from the resolution was an earlier provision advocating eventual severance of diplomatic ties with Czechoslovakia if Oatis isn't freed in 90 days.

Rep. Armstrong (R-Mo.), who sponsored the proposal aimed at breaking off both commercial and diplomatic relations, told newsmen he had to modify it because "it couldn't get support for the entire proposal."

Some members, Armstrong said, feared that the original proposal might further jeopardize Oatis and other Americans still in Czechoslovakia.

Oatis, an Associated Press correspondent, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment recently on an espionage charge.

The resolution refers to the "sham trial and unjust conviction" of Oatis and urges the United States government to "take all possible action to bring about his release."

Armstrong, urging the House yesterday to "get tough" with the Czechs, said the newspaperman will die "within a few weeks" unless released.

Rev. Tigner expressed gratitude for something less material—the church attendance, he said, has been greatly increased and become stabilized. "Peace and good will now reign within the congregation and the respect and influence in the congregation has been greatly increased," he added.

As he prepared to leave, Rev. Tigner said church finances have reached the highest level in history.

Three youths, he pointed out, have gone from the congregation into the ministry of the church.

Outside Church Activities

While the minister of the Christian Church here, Rev. Tigner served on the board of directors of the Tri-state Christian Camp. This camp organization, he said, includes more than 20 churches in central and southern Ohio and conducts a three-week outing for church youth.

Recently, Rev. Tigner assisted in the purchase and setting up of the Butler Springs Christian Association camp grounds near Sinking Springs in Highland County. This, he added, will provide the church youth with their own camp grounds.

For more than a year, Rev. Tigner's health has been failing and, although it has improved this summer, he said his physician had told him that he could not expect to assume the full responsibilities and duties of the ministry as long as he remains in this climate. He said the decision to leave Washington C. H. was difficult for the entire family, but that in the end it was agreed that it was best to move to a dry climate.

Casa Grande, the new field into which the Tigners are going, is a small but growing city of 5,000 population. It is 57 miles south of Phoenix in the irrigated valley of the Gila River. The water for the irrigation is provided, Rev. Tigner said, by the Coolidge Dam project across the Gila River.

The irrigated land around Casa Grande produces annually $250,000 worth of citrus fruit, vegetables, cotton, grapes and alfalfa. The Christian Church there was organized only this spring, and Rev. Tigner will be its first minister. He was recommended to the new church by the Southwest Christian Seminary at Phoenix as one especially suited to build up the new church.

Rev. and Mrs. Tigner and Miss Jaunita plan to drive through to their new home and take with them only such things as they can pack on a small trailer.

Miss Jaunita is now associated with the Franklin County District health office in charge of art work incidental and publicity. She is planning to "enter art school to complete preparations for work in that field."

Dog and Boy Are United after Pet Hurt in Accident

The close intangible bond which exists between a young boy and his dog was mirrored in the expression on little six-year-old Jimmie Hargo's face late Monday.

It spread over his face when he looked for the first time in four days on his companion of many a boyhood adventure—a part collie dog who had gone astray.

The pet lay on its side—its leg in a splint. It had a hurt look in its quiet, uncomplaining face.

This union between the boy and his dog was made possible by a woman who wishes to remain unidentified who found the little animal trying to reach the front door of Memorial Hospital.

She took the little dog to Dr. D. R. Junk's office on the Columbus Road, and asked the Record-Herald to insert a note asking for the owner to call her or Dr. Junk.

When Monday's Record-Herald carried a little story about the dog, Mr. and Mrs. James Hargo of 432 Delaware Street told their son that they knew where his pet was. When they took him to Dr. Junk's office, they thought for a minute of not taking the animal home, but when they saw the expression on their son's face they knew that it would almost be criminal not to.

The dog was struck by a car somewhere near the hospital on

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—The 1952 presidential election still is more than a year away. But the political experts already are beating their gums about events ahead.

But they're being pretty cagey about it—they have to—because the future is uncertain. As it stands now, the picture can be summed up briefly.

Republicans -- General Eisenhower and Senator Taft of Ohio are the two most prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination.

Taft is running for it as hard as he can. No one can predict at the moment what Eisenhower will do; he may want no part of it; or he may think he's more needed in uniform because of a war or because he thinks his job of rebuilding Europe's defenses isn't finished.

Democrats -- President Truman has given no hint of whether he'll seek re-election. Apparently awaiting his decision, most of his fellow Democrats have remained pretty mum on any other choice of their own, if any.

They don't seem to have a wide choice. Given mention as possible Democratic candidates are three: Truman doesn't run; as Mr. Truman, Senator Douglas of Illinois; and the supreme court's Chief Justice Vinson and associate Justice Douglas.

The supreme court is not a place for developing political attractiveness and the two justices don't have much popular backing; and as for Senator Douglas--the president is reported to dislike him intensely.

The experts ridicule any suggestion that Mr. Truman doesn't run he might, if he wanted to, be able to persuade Eisenhower to take the Democratic nomination.

Republican backers of the general claim to know he is a Republican and would run only on the Republican ticket. Only last week the president said he doesn't think the general is a candidate for the Democratic nomination although that doesn't rule out the chance he might try to persuade the general to be the candidate.

If Eisenhower ran as a Democrat a lot of Republicans backing him now as their candidate would be badly embarrassed. They couldn't very well campaign against him later.

From what he's said in the past, Eisenhower doesn't seem very close to Mr. Truman's thinking on domestic affairs. The president has urged much wider economic security for everyone, for instance, through a national medical health program.

While he was still active as president of Columbia University Eisenhower once said people looking for security could find it in jail, a remark which brought him criticism, even from his own students at Columbia.

But the general is much closer to the president's views on foreign affairs than he is to Senator Taft's. The general and the president both want strong military alliance with Europe.

Taft, from away back, hasn't been very warm about close tie-ups with Europe, as a few items from his record will show.

He was against lend-lease before we got into World War II, al-

Four Youths from Fayette County At FB Conference

Four young Fayette Countians are in the midst of having a good time and learning things that will be useful in the future at the Farm Bureau Youth conference, now in progress on the campus of Miami University.

Joanne Cleland, Phyllis Barney, Nancy Rife and Charlene Ekins left for the week-long meeting Sunday. They will return home Friday evening.

A number of topics will be taken up and discussed during the week. Among them will be one on "Government Agencies Working with the Farmer" by George Wilson, Butler County Agent. W. W. Montgomery, Fayette County Agent, will talk on the "History of Farm Organizations."

Some of the points Montgomery will bring to light will be a listing of the farm organizations which have been founded since the Civil War.

The first of these organizations was the Grange, founded in 1867. Other farm groups on the list include: The Farmers Alliance, The Agricultural Wheel, The Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America. The youngest farm organization on Montgomery's list is the Farm Bureau.

This talk will be given to the youngsters attending the conference on Thursday morning.

The group will participate in a number of different phases of recreation, including square dancing, learning American folk songs and dramatics. They will also get training in public speaking and political action.

Catholic Leaders Visit Friends Here

Father Joseph McDonald and Monsignor Martin Malloy, both formerly of Washington C. H., have been here visiting with their friends and relatives during the past few days.

Sunday, Monsignor Malloy, who is the brother of Jerry Malloy, who is well known for his work around the parish house, conducted the high mass at St. Colman's Church.

Monsignor Malloy is a chaplain at the Charity Sisters in Cincinnati. Father McDonald is now serving a church in Springfield, Illinois.

though he supported it after we did; he was against sending 50 destroyers to Britain even when she was backed to the wall by Nazi Germany; he opposed the legislation which made us an active part of the United Nations; and he opposed the Atlantic pact which put us into the present alliance with Europe as part of which Eisenhower is now in Europe, trying to build up western defenses.

Still, the experts don't seem to think the following could happen, even though anything seems possible in politics:

If Mr. Truman doesn't run and Taft clinches the Republican nomination, Eisenhower might accept the Democratic nomination because he differs so much from Taft on foreign affairs.

The peace treaty for the War of 1812 was signed at Ghent, Belgium.

FISHING FOR SPORT TODAY had another "amen" from the neighbors of the Jett family over in Millwood. Ray (Johnny) Jett (at left in above photo) and his son Ray, Jr., came back from a trot line fishing expedition to Main Paint Creek down near Bainbridge with a 31-pound shovelhead catfish that they said they were "just going to cut up and give to our friends." That's the way it nearly always is with the Jett fishermen; "we just like to catch them, but we don't care anything about eating them," they said. They caught this one on a trot line, using suckers for bait. (Record-Herald photo)

Communists Terrorists Burn Their Victim Alive

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Communist terrorists burned alive an Asian chief clerk of a Malayan rubber estate recently, a letter by a "North Johore Planter" to the "Straits Times" (English-language paper) revealed.

The "Planter" wrote that "armed bandits entered the house of the chief clerk of Tangkak Rubber Estate, North Johore, trussed him up, piled furniture on top of him and set fire to the house." He was burned to death.

The "Planter," complaining that this incident was never announced on the government-controlled radio or published in the local daily papers, remarked: "Maybe this is considered to be a minor incident."

COLUMBUS MAN LOSES 38 LBS. THANKS RENNEL

"I am a former Fire Captain of the City of Columbus and had been told by my doctor that I was far over my natural weight," writes Lisle R. Reece, 800 Heyl Ave., Columbus 6, Ohio. "Since taking Rennel I have lost 35 lbs. and about 4 inches off my waistline. I plan to continue with Rennel as I still must take off 15 more pounds." It's simple. It's amazing. How quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Stored Grain May Determine Future Food

BY OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—Big government wheat and corn stores may make the differences this year between food shortages and plenty.

The grains were bought in previous bumper years under a price support program some officials had wondered what they were even going to do with the one-time surpluses.

But an Agriculture Department crop report last week indicated that floods in some places and drought in others had converted a potential problem to a benefit.

The most serious shortages—without the stored grains—would have been felt in livestock feed grains especially corn. While a somewhat larger crop of corn than last year was forecast, the volume would not be large enough to maintain the current high level of production of meat, dairy and poultry products.

But a reserve of about 750,000,000 bushels of corn will make up the deficit in this year's crop, now forecast at 3,207,000,000 bushels. The government had set a goal of 3,375,000,000 bushels.

Similarly with wheat. A reserve of about 375,000,000 bushels will give the nation an ample supply of the bread grain despite the fact this year's crop is indicated to be the first one below a bil-

Family Injured In Suicide Blast

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14—(AP)—Detectives John Greene and Lythe Young expressed the opinion today that Charles Tribble, 37, fatally burned in an explosion Friday, intended to take his own life.

Tribble's wife and two children also were burned in the explosion and fire. The detectives said their investigation indicated the man did not intend to harm his family.

A gas pipe in the Tribble home was found disconnected. The officers said a spark from an electric switch or a refrigerator apparently touched off the explosion.

The officers said they were told by Mrs. Tribble that she and her husband had quarreled and he had threatened suicide.

Communist 'Designs' On Burma Now Seen

RANGOON—(AP)—Red China's future intentions towards Burma are revealed by reports of Burmese Communists receiving military training from Chinese Reds, the pro-government Burmese newspaper, New Light of Burma, said editorially.

These reports said the Communists from Burma were being shaped into soldiers at the Chinese town, Paoshan, 90 miles from the Sino-Burma border.

Recalling Red China has not refuted reports that the Communists intend "liberating" Burma within two years, the paper said these reports must be considered true until Peking officially repudiates them.

Rear-end Smashups Of Autos Expensive

NEW YORK —(AP)—Traffic congestion in New York City is causing almost 3,000 rear-end collisions per year, 50 deaths, 2,500 injuries and about $1,000,000 in damages.

The figures were compiled by the Greater New York Safety Council, which described the rear-end crash as the "most costly and most easily avoided of traffic accidents."

The council warns motorists that with continued gains in traffic volume a proportionate degree of care should be exercised to maintain safe distances between vehicles.

A Retailer Tells His Side of Prices

Hardly a day passes but what some one is heard to complain of high prices--and they are right, but the ordinary storekeeper here in Fayette County, and other places, also has his side of the case.

A few days ago this writer listened while a Washington C. H. store owner, who is constantly on the job and knows by actual working experience what he is talking about, said some things that seem only fair to pass on to the general public.

In addition to the trials and tribulations of extra book work, dealing with government inspectors and other annoyances having to do with price control by the government, the average merchant, he said, has the economic side to consider in connection with his business.

A little over a year ago this country witnessed a wave of scare buying that came quickly with the Korean war. There was frightened talk and many rumors about future shortages of nearly everything. The main problem of many merchants seemed to be to get enough goods from wholesalers and manufacturers to meet a roaring demand.

This merchant with whom we talked called attention to a survey conducted a short time ago by one of the country's leading publications which revealed how much conditions have changed.

"Today," this Washington C. H. business man said, "More merchants are bothered by 'longages', not 'shortages', and they are buying cautiously from suppliers."

He went further by stating that this does not mean that retail business is in the doldrums. It isn't. It is running at a good level, but the days of record sales are over. In many cases stores have large inventories of goods which are moving comparatively slowly. And consumers are shopping about and buying with great care.

Here seems proof that the retailer has plenty of problems, even though his prices seem high to most of us. Those prices aren't his fault--in case after case his actual profit per dollar of sales is less than it was in days when the price level was much lower. His operating costs have gone up all along the line, due to conditions which are entirely beyond his control. He must bear much of the brunt of consumer resentment over inflation. So matters aren't all milk and honey in the retail trades.

Honesty Needed Most

There is wide concern over the shady performances of some federal officials and hangers-on, but many persons are not convinced that a code of ethics or "a commission on ethics in the federal government" is the answer to the problem. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer scores a point when he says that "any man who has to look up his code of ethics to find out what is proper or improper to do is too innocent to be around Washington."

It is undeniable that many persons in Washington have frequent opportunity to make easy money for themselves by throwing their influence where it will do the most good. That a code of ethics could be drafted which would cover their activities is very much to be doubted.

What is needed is to go back to some good old-fashioned honesty in government instead of operating a "political grab-bag"!

Diet and Health Causes of Jaundice Many and Varied

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

The body has a special and complicated system of disposing of the iron-containing pigments which color the blood when they are freed by the destruction of old red blood cells--a process which goes on more or less constantly. There are a good many points at which the process can go off, thus releasing these pigments into the general circulation and causing them to be deposited in the skin and membranes of the body to bring about the yellowish discoloration known as jaundice.

From this, it is easy to see that the causes of jaundice are varied. Since the liver plays a major role in the process mentioned above, jaundice due to liver disorders is probably the most common type, and is usually associated with inflammation or hardening of this important organ.

Liver Damage

Jaundice due to inflammation of the liver usually is caused by a virus infection. However, it may be due to liver damage resulting from the ingestion of certain drugs, such as carbon tetrachloride, phosphorus, or chloroform. In the form caused by liver infection, jaundice may occur three months after a blood transfusion or may develop without warning. Usually fever, chills, and extreme yellow color of the skin, with enlargement and tenderness of the liver, are present. These cases are generally treated by employing a high carbohydrate (starches and sugars) and high protein diet.

Certain substances, such as methionine and choline, have been discovered to be of benefit in this condition. Some favorable results have been reported with the use of antibiotics, such as aureomycin, chloramphenicol, and terramycin. In most cases, the disease itself is limited and disappears as time progresses.

Defective Cells

Another type of jaundice is caused by defective red blood cells, which are smaller than the normal ones and are round in shape. As a result, those red blood cells are extremely fragile and rupture easily. This disease is seen frequently in many children; an enlarged spleen usually accompanies this disorder.

Another form of jaundice, known as post-liver jaundice, is caused by an obstruction to the normal flow of the bile from the liver and gallbladder to the intestines. This obstruction to the flow of bile may be either partial or complete. It is usually caused by either a stone in the tube or duct between the gallbladder and the intestines, or a tumor of the duct or the structures around the duct.

Very frequently, a tumor of the head of the pancreas is the cause of post-liver jaundice. This condition is best treated by surgery so that the obstruction to the flow of bile, which is responsible for the jaundice, is removed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. D. N.: Is there any cure for giant hives and what causes them?

Answer: Giant hives are a form of allergy. The cure for this condition consists in finding the substances to which the individual is sensitive and desensitizing him against the offending substances. Anti-histamine drugs are helpful in relieving the symptoms.

Man Who Started Bus Industry

HIBBING, Minn.,--(AP)--"Bus Andy" didn't drive the first bus in the United States.

But he did pioneer in establishing the modern bus industry in America back in 1914.

Today, at 68, "Bus Andy" -- Andrew G. Anderson -- still owns his old line and can take his turn in the driver's seat whenever needed.

"It is nothing new--compared to the old days," said Andy. He loves to recall those days when he and his first motor car struggled over dirt roads together on the first lap of his rise to wealth.

Andy borrowed from his mother to come here from Sweden on a cattle boat in 1900. He was a farmboy of 18 and couldn't speak English. His only possession was a fine hand-made wooden suitcase. Figuring a boy might want to eat while looking for a job in the new land, he thrifly loaded his suitcase with herring from the ship's food locker.

"But it was spring," he laughed, "and the herring spoiled. The suitcase smelled so bad I had to

A Curious Standard of Morals

The McCarran committee obtained much of its information concerning the Institute of Pacific Relations by subpoenaing the files of that body which were in a barn in Lee, Massachusetts, owned by Edward C. Carter.

Carter is a clever man, in his seventies, who has made his way in the world of international affairs with astounding success since World War I.

It is admitted by Carter that the files are authentic. The senator then wanted to know whether the institute had ever made an independent check to discover if the charges that Communists were using it as a front were authentic. Carter said that they had made such a check and threw in a lot of names: President Shrew of the University of California; Professor Joseph P. Chamberlain of Columbia (his niece was then Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt Field); Brooks Emery, of Cleveland, now president of the Foreign Policy Association, and Arthur Deane of Sullivan and Cromwell; and there were others. What did they discover? Well, this is the colloquy on the subject:

"Mr. Carter. Not an investigation in the sense of reading 400 books and thousands of letters.

"Senator Ferguson. Do you think it would have been proper for an organization such as this to make a search to attempt to see whether or not serious charges are true, so if there were they could clean their own house rather than to have a congressional committee do it?"

"The chairman. The question is susceptible to a yes or no answer, and you can explain afterwards. If you do not care to answer yes or no, I think the matter ought to terminate."

"Senator Ferguson. I want to know whether or not it would be a reasonable thing when charges are made against an organization as large as this that they were acting as a front of Communism that somebody in there would not have had an examination, a detailed investigation of their own house after these papers were seized and whether or not they did and whether or not they made a report."

"Mr. Carter. Charges that were made at the time of the seizure were in large part the same charges that had been made by a New York businessman, Mr. Alfred Kohlberg. They were investigated in view of the officers of the IPR. They were not substantiated. The new charges were so similar, in some cases so identical, that I imagine the committee felt there was no use of going through it again."

"Senator Ferguson. Was this investigation made after the papers were found in the office of Amerasia? Didn't that put an entirely different complexion on this whole Communist front and this organization being a Communist front?"

"Mr. Carter. It would have been an entirely (different?) complexion if there had been a proven charge that the Amerasia passed on restricted documents to representatives of foreign governments."

"Senator Ferguson. You mean the fact that they stole the papers out of the files of the fed-panded his line, driving himself from six in the morning until eleven at night.

It was a haphazard industry at the start.

"In the winter we had to go out at night and plow the snow off the road ourselves," he said. "And in the spring we had to keep two horses handy to pull us out of the mudholes."

"Once a man showed up with a trained bear. I told him the bus was for people, not bears. He said he would sit by the bear and it would take up no more space than he did. I finally agreed to take the bear for $5. On the way he broke out a window, and I made him pay for that, too. He was really angry--the man, not the bear. The bear didn't care."

A number of Andy's partners and drivers went on to executive posts in the mushrooming Greyhound Bus Company. He sold out most of his own extensive lines to the Northland Greyhound System in 1928. But he still operates about 100 public or school buses here and in three other Minnesota and Wisconsin cities.

"If a driver can't show up for some reason," said Andy, "I can still take the bus out myself. I do, too, sometimes."

But Andy now is about the best-paid bus driver in the country.

eral government, and used them, the mere fact they didn't pass them on to foreign governments made a difference?

"Mr. Carter. I think it did because I think one would be espionage or something more serious."

"The chairman. One would be theft and the other would be treason, is that not true?"

"Mr. Carter. You are the chairman."

"Senator Ferguson. Were they not both serious matters?"

"Mr. Carter. Yes."

This testimony ended on this note:

"Senator Eastland. How do you know copies of those documents were not passed on to foreign governments?"

"Mr. Carter. A lot of people have been trying to prove it and it has not been proven."

"Senator Eastland. You just testified they were not passed on. How did you know that?"

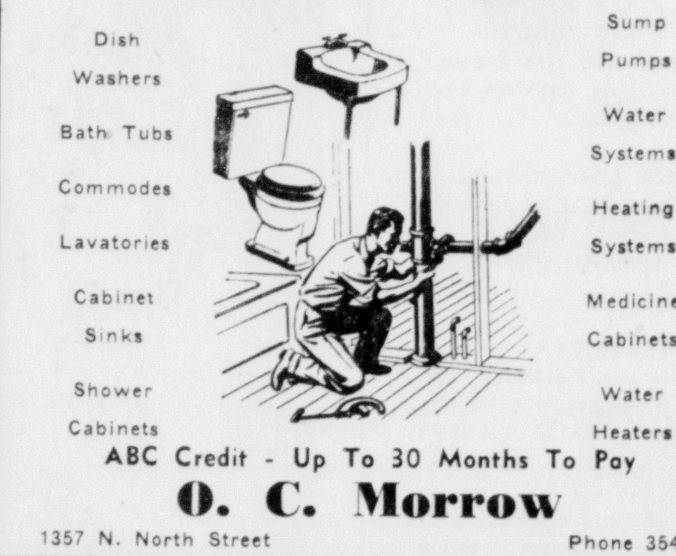

"Mr. Carter. They were stolen; they certainly were stolen. They were secured irregularly by people who were accused of being Communists."

The fact is that the two raids on the "Amerasia" magazine offices (1945) produced a large quantity of documents which should have been in the State Department but were in the magazine offices, where there was considerable photostating equipment.

It has never been explained how they got there. Those documents were either stolen, or were given to "Amerasia" by authorized or unauthorized persons. Neither the court cases nor the Tydings committee produced the evidence on how these documents moved from the State Department, treasury, army and navy intelligence in Washington to the "Amerasia" office in New York.

Perhaps before the McCarran committee has completed its work, it may find out. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

New Tax Sources Are Considered

Defense Financing
Lead to Increase

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Congress still has ways to tax you that it hasn't tried yet.

This may be no time to bring it up, but Congress is being urged today to look into these ways. The Twentieth Century Fund's committee on economic stabilization thinks Congress should start now to study taxes never used here before -- just to be ready in case the tightening screws of the income tax and the excise taxes don't raise the billions sought for defense.

The Congressional economic committee, at the same time, releases a report of its staff experts today recommending an immediate tax hike of $10 billion--with most of the burden on the middle income brackets.

The Twentieth Century Fund, a non-profit foundation for public education on current economic problems, sticks to its previously stated idea that $16 billion is needed in additional taxes to pay for defense as we go, and to ward off inflation.

The Senate is now studying the House's $7.2 billion tax bill, and some members of the Senate finance committee--predict they'll come out with a smaller sum than that.

Income Tax Favored

The fund's committee thinks that hiking personal income taxes is the best way to raise most of the $16 billion it insists is needed. But it also suggests that Congress, as a preparatory move, start studying other taxes.

These are explained in a book the fund publishes today -- "Financing Defense" by Albert G. Hart and E. Cary Brown, who teach economics at Columbia and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, respectively. The taxes -- which the authors discuss rather than recommend -- are:

1. A spendings tax. Unlike a simple sales tax this is a tax at progressive rates on each family's total spending. The more bills your family run up on you, the higher rate you would be taxed.

2. A net-worth tax. This has tempting revenue possibilities, since the authors estimate that the American public is worth at least $800 billion. People could be taxed on what they're worth rather than on what they make. The authors stress the difficulties of making this fair.

3. Tax on increases in personal income. This is a variant on the corporation excess-profits tax. It means that if you're making more this year than last, you'd pay in addition to the usual income tax another tax on the extra amount you're taking home this year.

Looking into Future

The two economists estimate that the hump of defense spending -- either next summer or the following winter -- will be at least $84 billion a year. To meet it, they think personal exemptions on income taxes may have to go down to $400 per capita and the first-bracket rate go up to 32 percent.

They call the personal income tax "the workable core of economic stabilization policy." And they say that a "lowering of exemptions is a better way of uncovering more tax potential than is a general sales tax, and far superior to any other tax suggested."

But Senator Taft, the Republican leader, said yesterday next year Congress may have to consider a federal sales tax to meet the cost of military spending.

In a report at the end of the book, the Twentieth Century Fund's committee on economic stabilization says it would oppose a general sales tax unless:

1. It was excluded from the bases used for figuring escalator clauses for wages and farm prices (otherwise inflation would go on spiraling);

2. The tax is kept separate from

'Little Joe' Sues For False Jailing For Towing Racket

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14—(AP)—Joseph (Little Joe) Lang filed suit today for $15,000 false imprisonment damages against three members of city council committee which is investigating towing "kickback" payments by garage owners to police officers.

Also named as defendants in the suit were Safety Director Orris E. Hamilton, Police Chief Stanley Schrotel, Police Sgt. Wilbert Earle and Patrolman Wilbur Stagenhorst. Council members named were Committee Chairman Edward Waldvogel, Mayor Albert D. Cash and Theodore Berry.

Lang, who had been sought as a witness in the hearing, was taken into custody last Thursday night and was held in jail from 1 A. M. until 10 A. M., Friday when he was released on a court writ.

He was identified as a former employee of Edwin Melzer, a garage owner, who named more than 30 policemen to whom he said he had made "kickback" payments for directing wrecked automobile towing jobs his way.

Restaurant Robbed

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—(AP)—A masked gunman held up a Howard Johnson Restaurant at University Circle early today and escaped with $3,000.

He entered the building just as Manager John Ragan, 27, and Miss Ruth Clark, 33, a waitress, were locking up.

the price of goods so that the purchaser knows how much the tax is.

And 3. Personal exemptions are provided. These exemptions would let every household buy tax-free a certain amount per family member, paying a sales tax only on purchases above the exemption. The committee says this would keep a sales tax from penalizing the poor.

The committee urges strong action to meet the threat of inflation, which it thinks will increase sharply in the next few months. The committee says large tax increases would hasten the time when direct price controls can be scrapped.

The points that Hart and Brown mull over are: What is the best way to get the money out of the taxpayers, and what way -- or combination of ways--will be the least painful, most effective and leave the fewest lasting scars on our economy?

Louisiana Swamp Hog Dogs Ugly but Useful

By CENTRAL PRESS

WATERPROOF, La.—Money cannot buy a genuine Catahoula hog dog. Owners give ugly duckling puppies of the canine world to their friends; they never sell them.

Ancestry unknown and famed for its ugliness, the Catahoula hog dog is the prized possession of every man who owns one. For nearly 200 years he has been matching wits with vicious hogs--and winning.

Semi-wild and long-snouted, the hogs roam the woods and swamps around Catahoula lake, near here in central Louisiana, rooting in the shallow water for fish and crayfish.

Getting Catahoula hogs out of the swamp ahead of flood waters or to market requires skill and courage. Catahoula hog dogs have both. The hogs can disappear in the tangled woods like muddled ghosts. And their sharp tusks can rip and kill.

Unlike most stock dogs, Catahoula hog dogs don't drive. They lead. Scenting their quarry in the woods, the dogs circle and bay, holding the hogs until the farmer arrives on horseback.

Big and strong, the most common Catahoula hog dog is a cur-yellow color with big black spots like a leopard and one white eye.

There are no pedigrees. Nobody knows where he came from.

oil nationalization talks with the British.

A new hitch in the negotiations developed last night when the British postponed submission of their proposal for a settlement of the dispute over the nationalization of Anglo-Iranian Oil Company holdings. Iranian coolness to their overtures was given as the reason.

The British proposal was scheduled to be presented tonight by Richard Stokes, chief of the British delegation. Stokes saw the Shah for a half hour this morning, and is believed to have outlined his proposal and appealed for the Shah's support.

Boys Find Good Fishing When Tank Truck Comes

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Modern Huck Finns know a good fishing hole when they see one.

When a tank truck from the Colorado Game and Fish Department brought 3,000 trout to dump in Mineral Palace park lake, nearly 50 boys, poles in hand, met it.

Before the men finished dumping the pan-size fish, several lads had caught their day's limit of five and headed home. One boy didn't even use a line for one catch. A fish missed the lake and slid under the truck. The boy came up with the fish firmly clutched in his hand.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

New Pill Developed To Treat Blood Clot

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 — (AP) — Pills that dissolve in your mouth may be a new way of fighting blood clots in heart patients, or saving frost-bitten soldiers from amputations.
The new pills contain heparin, a blood-thinning drug. Heretofore, heparin has been given only by injection.
Heparin often is used for heart patients, to dissolve potentially fatal clots in blood vessels. Such clots also may form after childbirth.
The Hebrides Islands were ruled by Norway until 1266.
